Guiteau's Case.

The indictment in twelve counts, which is being prepared against Charles J. Guiteau for the murder of the late President Grant, has not come as yet from the hands of the printer, or at least Col. Corkhill says that it has not been placed in the hands of the grand jury. The District Attorney was questioned to-day as to when Guiteau would be arraigned for the indictment, which should have been returned—a true bill. The reporter also incidentally remarked that perhaps the reticence of the District Attorney was attributable to the fact that if the announcement of the exact time of the arraignment of the assassin were made through the press it would draw an immense crowd in front of the City Hall.

Col. Corkhill replied, "Oh, no; it is not that—the case will take the usual course. You may be sure that nothing will be done to-day."

"But, Colonel, what will be done to-morrow?"

Col. C.: "Ah! we can't penetrate the future."

The grand jury adjourned at 1:30 p. m., but made no returns of indictments to the Court.

The Christianity Case.

To-day in the court in Banc, the appeal of the counsel for Mrs. Christianity from the decision of Justice Cox, in refusing to set aside the testimony of Emil Giro, was called up for a hearing. Mr. Oliver attempted to give a statement of his reasons for making the appeal, but Chief Justice Carter declined to hear any statement or to try the case in the Court in Banc on any collateral issues. The appeal was dismissed without prejudice to the rights of parties in the final hearing below.

To-day, at 1 p. m., was the hour set for the resumption of the taking of testimony in the Christianity divorce case, but Mr. Cole, of counsel for Mrs. Christianity, being engaged in the Court in Banc, the examination was postponed until to-morrow. It was intended that Mrs. Christianity should give her evidence, and she was promptly on hand with her mother, looking fresh and blooming in spite of the reports that have been disseminated as to her ill-health. She remained some time in consultation with her counsel.

The Old Pub. Func.

John D. DeFees, whose tenure of office is so limited and uncertain, is quivering in his boots and yelling lustily, "Help me, Cassius, or I sink." He says he is now willing and ready to take back all he has said against Gen. Grant and President Arthur, and will once more enter the party fold, and become a brother in good standing, if allowed to do so. He does not deny, however, that in the campaign of '72 he was General Grant a "drunken son of a bitch," in this writing, is somewhat shaky, and some one ought to comfort the poor old man. He will probably get his crumb of comfort in a few weeks, in the form of an official letter, asking him to step down and out.
